Dear parents/carers,

Over the next few days you will be receiving a log on for TT Rockstars. This is a new initiative to boost mental recall of times tables. It is designed to be fun and competitive to help with your children's times tables.

The children will be able to use the interactive site, where they can challenge themselves with other children in school and around the world.

Children can then earn in game money to help them buy new clothes and equipment for their avatars. In school, children will be tested 3 times a week with 60 multiplication and division questions based on what they have been learning that week on paper. When they have completed the paper copy, they will be given a special name such as gigger, rock hero, or rock legend based on how well they have done with their test.

Children will be told in school how to use the website and their log on details will be given to them at school along with a password which will be written in the front of their diaries when the children have been shown how to use it properly.

Although this isn't set homework, we encourage the children to access it whenever and wherever they can.

If you have any problems with using this app, please speak to your teacher, who will be happy to help.

Yours sincerely

Mr. T. Wright
